JIM HOWARD IN JAIL.

He says That He Can Prove That He Had No Connection With the Assassination.

Frankfort, Ky., May 11.—Jim Howard, the feudist, who was named by Cullen and other witnesses as the man who probably fired the shot which killed William Goebel, surrendered at the jail here Wednesday night. He arrived here at 6:30 in custody of Sheriff Ives White, of Clay county, and John G. White, of Winchester.

Sheriff White says that Howard told him when his name was first mentioned in connection with the assassination that he was innocent and would surrender whenever he was wanted. Mr. White said: "I received the warrant for Howard's arrest several days ago, but at the time I was busy. I know Howard and he has no connection with the assassination. As soon as I got time I served the warrant of arrest on him. This was on the 7th inst. He came without a word." Howard said: "I never was inside the state house square in my life until the afternoon following the assassination of Goebel. I am innocent and can prove by testimony which will not be doubted that I was not at the state house when Mr. Goebel was killed."

The reward commission in charge of the board for apprehension of the assassin said a meeting, but did nothing more than to pay the bounty on counts. A member of the commission stated that all of the expenses of that body up to date does not aggregate $2,500.

THE CARMEN'S STRIKE.

Several Disorders in Connection With the Strike in St. Louis.

Cars Run Over the City Lines Under Strong Police Protection—Suburban Cars Run With but Slight Disturbance.

St. Louis, May 11.—The feature of the day in the street railway strike which commenced Tuesday morning in this city by the men on the St. Louis Traction Co.'s lines refused to work longer unless their demands for higher wages were released, was the conference between Gov. Stephens, the members of the executive committee of the local street railway employees' association and the officers and attorneys of the traction companies, for the purpose of ascertaining if some sort of an amicable understanding could not be arrived at. The conference lasted for several hours, but at its conclusion the strike was maintained, and nothing had been accomplished. The strikers' officials were willing to arbitrate, provided the proposition to stop running the railway company. The railway officials refused to entertain any such proposal, stating that they had nothing to arbitrate. St. Louis, May 12.—Affairs in the street railway strike have not materially changed. Rioting was kept up in various parts of the city. In one instance the police fired into a crowd and in others used their clubs on those who attempted to interfere with the running of cars. The strike system ran all its cars under an escort of police. So close was the watch maintained by the force that practically no disturbance occurred on its lines. The Transit Co. started cars on a number of its branches, and notwithstanding the ample police protection afforded, trouble cropped out in various districts.

St. Louis, May 13.—The California avenue division was reopened Saturday under police protection. Seven cars are running and more will be put on during the day. All clerks in the offices of the Lindell division of the transit company at Vandeventer and Park avenues, were sworn in as policemen Saturday afternoon.

St. Louis, May 14.—The sixth day of the street railway strike was especially quiet and devoid of interest. Not a wheel, except of the mail cars, was turned in the city in consequence of the decision of Chief of Police Campbell to give the men of the force, who had had little time for rest during the past five days, a chance to recuperate for the coming week.

The management of the two street railway companies, who feared to run cars without police protection, decided to make no attempt to keep their lines open. As a result the turbulent scenes that last week marked the reopening of the different lines were not experienced, and the day passed off without serious trouble. The only police on duty were stationed at the different power houses and car sheds.

STRIKE IN KANSAS CITY. Cars in Full Operation Owing to an Injunction Issued by the Federal Court.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—Every street car line in this city and Kansas City, Kan., was in full operation Sunday, and no show of violence was offered by the strikers. The injunction of the federal court, enjoining the union men from interfering with the running of cars, and the added fact that it was Sunday, combined to have a salutary effect on the strikers.

The railway officials had had applications from twice as many men as they could use, and to be sure of no delay, placed half a dozen extra crews at the terminals of the line, paying them full wages, to fill the gap that might be caused by any recruits to the strikers' ranks.

Occasionally along the line the cry of "seab" would be heard, but it was principally the act of boys who took delight in taunting the men. There was practically nothing to indicate that a strike was in progress. President Holmes declared that so far as his company was concerned the walk-out was a matter of his own making, and emphasized this fact by joining a party of friends on a jaunt to Leavenworth. The strikers, interviewed individually, however, declared they were still hopeful that they soon would show different results.

During the afternoon the industrial council held an enthusiastic meeting and adopted resolutions sympathizing with the street car men and ordering a boycott on the railway company. The resolutions request the presidents of the different unions represented in the council to instruct their members not to ride on the cars and urge the members of these unions working in the railway company's power houses and shops in whatever capacity to strike in sympathy with the street car men.

The resolutions also request the union musicians who furnish music at the parks controlled by the city to refuse to play for the daily concerts.

THE CARMEN'S STRIKE.

Rich Was Neely's Partner.

The Man Who Confessed to Many Things in Connection with the Cuban Postal Frauds.

Havana, May 11.—Caydon Rich was the man who confessed to a knowledge of many of the transactions which, in the opinion of lawyers, tend to implicate others besides Neely in the postal office defalcation. Rich was Neely's partner in a number of business enterprises in Cuba, and also holds power of attorney for him. It was through Rich that $3,000 of new issue stamps were recovered, and he has been arrested and confined to the valuable assistance he is now giving in unraveling the plot. Further, he has agreed to give evidence when Neely is arraigned.

The postal office defalcation, so far as discovered at present, is $38,000 during the year 1900 and $60,000 during the year 1901. Of this amount, $5,000 has been recovered, $2,500 deposited, and for several years Neely's name has been attached, and $6,000 he had in his possession when arrested. A brickyard and a cacao grove, the value of which is undeclared, the property of Neely, are also mentioned.

Munich, Ind., May 14.—C. F. W. Neely was called upon at the home of his sister and the reported confession of Mr. Rich was read to him. Mr. Neely refused absolutely to make a statement further than to say there must be a mistake. Rich is one of Munich's leading business men, a son-in-law of Joseph A. Goddard, wholesale dealer in hardware, and a former traveling salesman and also was secretary of the Indiana Traveling Men's Protective association. Rich has always been an intimate friend of Neely's partner in a number of business enterprises.

Havana, May 13.—Postage stamps to the value of $5,000 have been recovered by secret service agents as the results of information furnished by the man who has confessed to guilty knowledge of the postal frauds. It is estimated that the shortage will not be more than $100,000.

Washington, May 12.—Senator Bacon introduced a resolution in the senate on Friday calling for a thorough investigation and report to the senate of all money received and expended in the island of Cuba by the United States military and civil authorities until April 30, 1901.

Col. George H. Burton, of the inspector general's department, has interference with war department officials Friday afternoon. Col. Burton is the officer of the inspector general's department who detected the postal frauds in the Cuban service in connection with Charles F. W. Neely, now under arrest.

Col. Burton spent half an hour in close conference with Secretary Root, and then paid his respect to Adj. Gen. Corbin and some of the other officials of the department. He brought with him documentary evidence touching the postal frauds, and is Secretary Root was not able, for lack of time, to go over the papers, but took them with him to the cabinet meeting for their consideration.

Col. Burton then said that he had nothing to communicate to the press regarding the matter under investigation. He said that it was for him to talk at this stage save to the officials of the government. I wished it understood that up to the time he left Havana the incident of the postal frauds had been conducted by himself and the United States postal authorities had nothing to do with it.

It is expected that the state department will take part in the extradition proceedings in the Neely case, assuming that the New York authorities are disposed to honor Gen. Wood's demand for the surrender of Neely.

The act of the state department, and in some instances the department has undertaken to pass judgment upon the question as to whether a private fraud case had been established sufficient to warrant the granting of the request. In view of the official character of the investigation in Neely's case, however, it is said that the department's action will be purely formal.

GOT AWAY IN SAFETY.

Boers Took All Their Guns, Etc., When They Left Kroonstad.

Many of the Correspondents at the Front Announce That the War Is Practically Over—No News From Gen. Buller.

London, May 14.—The news of the occupation of Kroonstad by Lord Roberts without resistance causes great rejoicing here. Although the troops found no entering the town, excellent form on entering the town. The union jack was hoisted in the market place by Mrs. Lockhead, the American wife of a Scotchman. The Boers are now trekking to the Vaal river, where they are entrencing. Gen. Buller encamped northeast of the town and dispatched a force to cut the line. The project succeeded late at night, but unfortunately, after the departure of the last train.

The Boers, who were in the town, were met with enthusiasm by all the British inhabitants. Three hundred Free States were anxious to surrender. The bridge to the south had not been destroyed, but the large bridge near the town had been demolished. The Irish brigade with the federal burned the goods shed. According to the townspeople, many of them were driven to the Vaal river.

It appears that the Boers had been reinforced by 3,000 men from Natal last Friday, and that altogether 10,000 men with 20 guns made an ineffectual attack on the British. They had elaborate entrenchments in front of Kroonstad, which offered great facilities for a rear guard action. Their only anxiety, however, appears to have been to get away with all their guns and convoys, which again they have successfully accomplished. The few stores they were unable to carry away they burned.

President Steyn is represented as having been frantic and as having kicked and cuffed the burghers after vainly imploring them to continue the fight.

"The war is practically over," says the Daily Chronicle's Kroonstad correspondent, and in less definite terms this is the view to be gathered from all the correspondents. They picture the Boers as utterly demoralized and disheartened by Lord Roberts' unexpectedly rapid advance and by his facile turning of the carefully prepared positions of the Boers.

Owing to the gathering of so many different classes of persons therein, the interior walls of churches, schoolhouses, hospitals, etc., are now covered with disease germs unless preventive measures are taken. These walls should always be covered with a clean and pure cement, such as Abakane, which is disinfectant in its nature and is convenient to renew and retint than any other wall coating. The first coat is no greater than for interior work. Renewals are more easily and cheaply made.

HE MADE HER TIRED.

And She Gave Him to Understand as Much in a Most Emphatic Manner.

"Anything wrong?" asked the hotel clerk of the New York drummer who had just got home from the west, relates the Buffalo Courier.

"Nothing," was the reply. "I rode from Toledo to Buffalo with the prettiest girl I ever saw."

"That didn't hurt you. Who was she?"

"Can't tell."

"You didn't introduce yourself and get her card in return?"

"No particular trouble, eh?" solicitedly insisted the clerk.

"Well, it was this way," replied the traveler, as he braced up for the explanation. She sat opposite me, you know, and I tried for an hour to catch her eye. She simply stared and gazed out of the window. Then she read and handed me a magazine, but she declined with thanks. Ten minutes later I brought the latest novel out, but she said she didn't read fiction. Then I brought some fruit, but she would accept none. She also ignored me when I tried to draw her out on 'em."

"But you persisted?"

"Oh, yes. That is, I was about to make another attempt to enter into conversation when the train came to a halt at a town and the girl beckoned me over. I was there in an instant, and with the sweetest smile you ever saw she asked me if I would do her a 'mighty favor.'"

"With all my heart," I hastened to say.

"Well, it was this way," she said, smiling ever so sweetly, "suppose you leave the train here and take the next one that follows, for I have just learned that the large bridge near the town had been demolished. The Irish brigade with the federal burned the goods shed. According to the townspeople, many of them were driven to the Vaal river."

Proposed Alliance with England. If the United States and England should form an alliance, the combined strength would be so great that there would be no need for enemies to overcome us. In a like manner, the United States and England, with their combined strength with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, there is little chance of attacks from disease. The old time remedy cures the blood, builds up the muscles, steadies the nerves and increases the appetite. Try it.

Unwelcome Friendship. "I want to say to you," roared the red-faced passenger, "that I am a friend to the Boers, all the time."
